

Ballymac Glanageenty Ramblers

Update 12/05/2018

"Ballymac Glanageenty Ramblers is a voluntary run Hillwalking Club. We collect and retain basic information on Members, including name, address, emails, and mobile number, to enable us plan and safely run Club activities, and to afford us the facility of potentially contacting individuals, during a hill walk, for safety and group control perspectives. We also request contact information of your next of kin and medical information, which is not obligatory for you to provide to become a member of the Club. Ballymac Glanageenty Ramblers take our obligations to you under the General Data Protection Regulation very seriously and will not share or pass on your information with any third parties for any purposes whatsoever, without your explicit permission. We also fully comply with all provisions of the General Data Protection Regulation and will comply with any request from any member regarding their data in terms of portability or erasure as outlined in the Regulation. Should you have any queries, please feel free to contact any Officer of the Club."
